

Normally I give a sermon on our upcoming Gospel Meeting the week before. However, this time I believe it will be good to get a jump on things and explain WHY we have a Meeting. WHO we aim to minister to, and WHAT can be accomplished. Let's all pull together to save some souls as we go into Spring. Tonight will be singing.

Ladies' Day Shatters old record with 161 attendees!

It was a huge turnout this year to hear Becky Honeycutt as our Young Ladies' Day featured worship lead by the young women of Mt. Gilead. A big thank you goes to sister Honeycutt, the worship leaders, kitchen leaders, videographer, and all those who made the day a success.

IN NEED OF PRAYER : Rachel Bartley is getting around better but still having some difficulties. We are so very saddened by the slew of deaths recently. I decided not to try and mention all those whose service has passed but instead just say that among the deceased is Cletra Head. Her service will be Monday at 2pm at the T-ville church building. Retia Rich is to have knee surgery. Riley Lyon continues to get better and more mobile.

Camp: We had a good organizational meeting recently. The paper applications will go out this week. We will announce when you can apply online (just a few days) at statlinecamp.com Gospel Meeting: Advertisements are out front. This will be on us before you know it.

Spiritual Health by Franklin Camp

“Hold fast the form of sound words, which thou hast heard of me, in faith and love which is in Christ Jesus” (2 Timothy 1:13). The margin of the A.S.V. gives “healthful” instead of “sound.” “They that are whole need not a physician” (Luke 15:27). The word “sound” in these passages is the same as the word “sound” in 2 Timothy 1:13.

Spiritual health is not accidental. There are some essentials. One of the essentials is love. You will notice that Paul ties it in with healthful words.

“Love is not provoked, taketh not account of evil; rejoiceth not in unrighteousness, but rejoiceth with truth” (1 Corinthians 13:5b,6, A.S.V.).

The King James version says “easily provoked.” Love enables one to maintain control. Love does not blaze up in wrath. Love is not irritable. Life often consists of little things that annoy. These may become a source of irritation unless love controls one's actions. Love has the ability to help one handle the little things that tend to upset. Love remains calm in the face of the irritation of life. There is a basic difference between anger at wrong and flaring up at things that are a source of irritation. Some may have a personality that makes it easier for them to stay calm in unsettling situations, but there is no excuse for anyone pitching a tantrum and allowing the tongue to run loose. Love can control temper. The apostle John evidently had a quick temper, but he learned to love and love controlled it.

Christians must learn not to be touchy. Ill temper is often excused by otherwise good people. Am I one who gets my feathers ruffled easily? Do I have a quick temper? I must learn to love and it will overcome it.

The elder brother's lack of love produced a bad temper. He was irritated by the reception his brother received. Think of how his ruffled attitude had an effect on others. It grieved the heart of the Father. The prodigal already had a heavy load in view of his past. The ugliness of the elder brother would only add to his burden. One does not feel free when around on that is touchy. It is like walking on pins and needles. One has to be careful about every word and look lest the person comes unglued over some minor thing. There are husbands and wives where tension is high because one is easily irritated and ready to fly off the handle. Evil temper robs one of peace, destroys relationships, turns homes into battlegrounds, produces fear in children, and throws congregations into turmoil. It leaves a trail of misery in its path. The cure for this miserable sin is love.

What Must I do?

- Hear the Gospel - Acts 15:7
- Believe the Gospel - Mark 16:15,16
- Repent of Sins - Acts 17:30
- Confess Christ - Rom. 10:9,10
- Be Baptized for the Forgiveness of Sins - Acts 2:38

Then, as a Christian we must:

- LIVE FAITHFUL UNTO DEATH - REV. 2:10
