Understandest Thou What Thou Singest?

(cont. from last week) A prophet whose pillow was a stone is mentioned in “Mansion Over the Hilltop.” This “prophet” was Jacob who was fleeing from the wrath of Easu and pillowed his head on a stone at Luz (or Bethel), a place he passed through on his way to another land (Genesis 28:10-19).

In “Wonderful Love Of Jesus” we sing of raising “lays to Jesus in praise.” “Lay” is an archaic term for a song, thus, this hymn speaks of our attempts to praise Christ with spiritual songs.

When we sing “Ivory Palaces” we sing in the second verse that “aloes had a part” in Jesus’ life. Aloes, a perfume made from the oil of a tree, was provided by Nicodemus to prepare the body of Jesus for burial (John 19:39) and thus it symbolizes the sorrow surrounding His death.

“What is an “Ebenezer” (“Oh Thou Fount Of Every Blessing”)? The word means “the stone of help” and it refers to a stone Samuel erected as a memorial of God’s miraculous help to Israel in routing the Philistines (I Samuel 7:10-12).

In “Give Me The Bible” we sing of the “glory gilding Jordan’s wave” (some misread it as “gliding” instead of “gilding”). That which is gilded is overlaid with gold. “Jordan’s waves” is a figurative reference to death; as Israel had to literally cross the Jordan River to enter the Promised Land, so we must all die to gain Heaven. Death holds men in fear, but the promises and comforts of God’s Word make even death attractive as though gilded for the faithful saint.

If you won a “Guerdon” (Beautiful Isle Of Somewhere”), would you know what you had won? “Guerdon” simply means a reward and refers to the promise of God to reward His children in Heaven, that poetic “Beautiful Isle Of Somewhere.”

“This Midnight And on Olive’s Brow” has two expressions that some may miss. First, “Olive’s Brow” does not refer to the forehead of Popeye’s sweetheart! Just east of Jerusalem, across the Kidron Valley, is the Mount of Olives (“Olivet”) upon whose side (“brow”) is the Garden of Gethsemane. Jesus retired there with His apostles and prayed His prayers of agony on the eve of the Crucifixion (John 18:1; Matthew 26:36). Second, the last verse of the song speaks of the “ether(not either) plains,” which is a figurative reference to the vast regions of space or Heaven.

What is “Ebon Pinion” in “Night, With Ebon Pinion”? “Ebon” refers to the color black (as “ebony”). A “pinion” is the wing of a bird. The setting of this song is the betrayal and crucifixion of Christ. This series of events was so dark and somber that it was thought a great black bird, bearing doom, had cast its shadow over the Lord as He knelt in Gethsemane, was betrayed, tried and finally crucified. -- Dub McClish
